D. Option A
Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 2
HyperMetro uses cross-site real-time data mirroring to ensure real-time data synchronization between the storage arrays at two sites. Upon receiving a write I/O, the storage array in a data center generates a write log. In the log, only address information is recorded, but data is not recorded. To ensure performance, log information is recorded in memory space capable of power failure protection.
A. TRUE
B. FALSE
Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 3
Which statement best describes the relationship between the Logical View and the Development view of the Service-Oriented Integration architecture?
A. The Logical View defines the rationale for layers within the architecture. The Development View specifies the developer tools used for each layer.
B. The Logical View defines the layers of the architecture and the capabilities within each layer. The Development View describes how aspects of the architecture impact developers following the architecture.
C. The Logical View defines the layers of the architecture and the capabilities within each layer. The Development View specifies the developer tools that provide the capabilities for each layer.
D. The Logical View specifies the developer tools required by each layer in the architecture. The Development View describes the developer impact of the tools specified.
E. The two architectural views are Independent and there is no relationship between them.
Answer: B
Explanation:
* The Logical View of the architecture describes the various layers in the architecture.
Each layer encapsulates specific capabilities for the overall architecture. Upper layers in the architecture leverage the capabilities provided by the lower layers.
*The Development View of the architecture describes aspects of the architecture that are of interest to developers building assets that conform to and leverage the architecture.
In a service-oriented integration architecture the primary developer artifacts are the SOA Services that are created to expose data and functionality contained in source systems.

Explanation

Box1: API App

* Events generated from the IoT data sources are sent to the stream ingestion layer through Azure HDInsight Kafka as a stream of messages. HDInsight Kafka stores streams of data in topics for a configurable of time.
* Kafka consumer, Azure Databricks, picks up the message in real time from the Kafka topic, to process the data based on the business logic and can then send to Serving layer for storage.
* Downstream storage services, like Azure Cosmos DB, Azure SQL Data warehouse, or Azure SQL DB, will then be a data source for presentation and action layer.
* Business analysts can use Microsoft Power BI to analyze warehoused data. Other applications can be built upon the serving layer as well. For example, we can expose APIs based on the service layer data for third party uses.
Box 2: Cosmos DB Change Feed
Change feed support in Azure Cosmos DB works by listening to an Azure Cosmos DB container for any changes. It then outputs the sorted list of documents that were changed in the order in which they were modified.
The change feed in Azure Cosmos DB enables you to build efficient and scalable solutions for each of these patterns, as shown in the following image:
