NEW QUESTION: 1
Your company named Contoso, Ltd., has an Exchange Server 2013 organization named contoso.com.
The network contains an Active Directory domain. The domain contains an organizational unit (OU) named SalesOU. SalesOU contains two users named User1 and User2.
Contoso purchases a domain name adatum.com.
You need to change the primary SMTP address of all the users in SalesOU to use the SMTP suffix of adatum.com. The solution must not remove the contoso.com email address.

Which two actions should you perform? (Each correct answer presents part of the solution. Choose two.)
A. Create a new remote domain for adatum.com.
B. Create a new accepted domain for adatum.com and set the domain type to Authoritative Domain.
C. Create a new accepted domain for adatum.com and set the domain type to External RelayDomain.
D. Create a new email address policy and apply the policy to the users in SalesOU.
E. Change the default email address policy to include adatum.com.
Answer: B,D

Email Address Policies
Applies to: Exchange Server 2013
Recipients (which include users, resources, contacts, and groups) are any mail-enabled object in Active Directory to which Microsoft Exchange can deliver or route messages. For a recipient to send or receive email messages, the recipient must have an email address. Email address policies generate the primary and secondary email addresses for your recipients so they can receive and send email.
By default, Exchange contains an email address policy for every mail-enabled user. This default policy specifies the recipient's alias as the local part of the email address and uses the default accepted domain.
The local part of an email address is the name that appears before the at sign (@). However, you can change how your recipients' email addresses will display. For example, you can specify that the addresses display as Looking for management tasks related to email address policies? See Email Address Policy Procedures.
A: Need to create a new email address policy
D: There are three types of accepted domains: authoritative, internal relay, and external relay.
Configure an Accepted Domain within Your Exchange Organization as Authoritative Applies to: Exchange Server 2013 If a domain belonging to your organization hosts mailboxes for all the recipients within an SMTP namespace, that domain is considered to be authoritative.
By default, one accepted domain is configured as authoritative for the Exchange organization.
If your organization has more than one SMTP namespace, you can configure more than one accepted domain as authoritative.

NEW QUESTION: 3
Which two security features are only supported on the Cisco Nexus 7000 Series Switches? (Choose two.)
A. CoPP
B. Dynamic ARP Inspection
C. NAC
D. DHCP snooping
E. traffic storm control
F. IP source guard
Answer: C,E
Explanation:
Explanation
A traffic storm occurs when packets flood the LAN, creating excessive traffic and degrading network performance. You can use the traffic storm control feature to prevent disruptions on Layer 2 ports by a broadcast, multicast, or unicast traffic storm on physical interfaces.
Traffic storm control (also called traffic suppression) allows you to monitor the levels of the incoming broadcast, multicast, and unicast traffic over a 10-millisecond interval. During this interval, the traffic level, which is a percentage of the total available bandwidth of the port, is compared with the traffic storm control level that you configured. When the ingress traffic reaches the traffic storm control level that is configured on the port, traffic storm control drops the traffic until the interval ends.
