NEW QUESTION: 1

Which of the following risk concepts requires an organization to determine the number of failures per year?

- A. MTBF
- B. Quantitative analysis
- C. ALE
- D. SLE

Answer: C

Explanation:

ALE is the annual loss expectancy value. This is a monetary measure of how much loss you could expect in a year.

Incorrect Answers:

A. SLE is a monetary value, and it represents how much you expect to lose at any one time: the single loss expectancy. SLE can be divided into two components: AV (asset value) and the EF (exposure factor).

C. The mean time between failures (MTBF) is the measure of the anticipated incidence of failure for a system or component. This measurement determines the component's anticipated lifetime.

D. Quantitative analysis is used to show the logic and cost savings in replacing a server for example before it fails rather than after the failure.
