NEW QUESTION: 1

DRAG DROP

You need to notify Windows phone users about the new Windows phone app.

Which three actions should you perform in sequence? (To answer, move the appropriate actions from the list of actions to the answer area and arrange them in the correct order.) Select and Place:

Answer :

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Note:

* A device channel panel is a container that can be used on a master page or page layout when you want specific content to render based on the alias of a given device channel, or set of channels. For example, you may have a web part or control that you want revealed only on the desktop view of the site, and not on any mobile device. The device channel panel can enable you to encapsulate this web part in code, and enable you to render it only through a designated device channel.

* From scenario:

You create a Windows Phone app. When users access the site by using a Windows phone, a message must appear on every page of the mobile site. The message must notify users that they can download the Windows Phone app to their phone. The HTML that contains the message must render only to the Windows phones.

NEW QUESTION: 4

Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a server named Server1 that runs Windows Server 2012. Server1 has the Hyper-V server role installed. Server1 has a virtual switch named RDS Virtual. You replace all of the network adapters on Server1 with new network adapters that support single-root I/O virtualization (SR-IOV).

You need to enable SR-IOV for all of the virtual machines on Server1.

Which two actions should you perform? (Each correct answer presents part of the solution.)

Choose two.)

- A. On each virtual machine, modify the Advanced Features settings of the network adapter.
- B. Delete, and then recreate the RDS Virtual virtual switch.
- C. On each virtual machine, modify the BIOS settings.
- D. Modify the settings of the RDS Virtual virtual switch.
- E. On each virtual machine, modify the Hardware Acceleration settings of the network adapter.

Answer: B,E

Explanation:

The first step when allowing a virtual machine to have connectivity to a physical network is to create an external virtual switch using Virtual Switch Manager in Hyper-V Manager. The additional step that is necessary when using SR-IOV is to ensure the checkbox is checked when the virtual switch is being created. It is not possible to change a "non SR-IOV mode" external virtual switch into an "SRIOV mode" switch. The choice must be made a switch creation time .

E: Once a virtual switch has been created, the next step is to configure a virtual machine. SR-IOV in Windows Server "8" is supported on x64 editions of Windows "8" as a guest operating system (as in Windows "8" Server, and Windows "8" client x64, but not x86 client). We have rearranged the settings for a virtual machine to introduce sub-nodes under a network adapter, one of which is the hardware acceleration node. At the bottom is a checkbox to enable SR-IOV.

Note:

*Steps:

/ SR-IOV must be enabled on virtual switch / Install additional network drivers in the guest OS / Enable SR-IOV within the VMs through Hyper-V Manager

*Single Root I/O Virtualization (SR-IOV) is a standard introduced by the PCI-SIG that owns and manages PCI specifications as open industry standards. SR-IOV enables network traffic to bypass the software switch layer of the Hyper-V Virtualization stack to reduce the I/O overhead in this layer. It allows an SR-IOV virtual function of a physical network adapter to be assigned directly to a virtual machine to increase network throughput by reducing latency. Host CPU overhead also get reduced for processing network traffic.

*The diagram below illustrates how SR-IOV allows virtual machines to directly address the physical NIC.
